

The Parking Lot Chronicles

Issue 1

IT'S THE FUCKING PARKING LOT CHRONICLES!!!*

Idea stolen from "The Corndog Diary"

Good job! You made it to the "Greatest Snow on Earth"™©! A land of both endless opportunity (as long as you are white, male, and associated with the Church of Latter-Day Saints), and of endless natural beauty.

"Why take a gap year?" your parents questioned,
"Why not go straight to school like the rest of your siblings?"

You just had to chase the exorbitant riches and fame associated with being a "professional" skier. And now here you are, rotting away in your windowless concrete basement apartment that you sublet from your ex-girlfriend's coke plug for $70 and unlimited rips off your ELFBAR™. At this point, you might be getting concerned that you might have made the wrong decision, and that maybe mom and dad had a point – but don't fret! There is so much more to this wasteland than chasing the dream of getting a couple of free skis in exchange for risking death or tens of thousands of dollars in hospital bills. Learn how to rock climb, get a blue collar job, join the Church, or even better, you could stop taking this shit so seriously and have fun skiing with all these friends you've made along the way.

- Pretend you don't know who he is
- Play along and be as dry as possible, maybe it won't get posted
- Run farther
- Pretend to have just torn ACL
- If all else fails, delete your instagram

Trendwatch 2023

Experienced members of the Salt Lake Parking Lot community know that being accepted is not about being a good person, or being interesting, or even being a good skier, its mostly just about looking the part.

Here at the Parking Lot Chronicles Fashion division, we know that you don't have the time to sift through Newschoolers threads and watch every underground east coast urban video to curate a kit that both timeless and cutting-edge, so we have put together our predictions for what is hot, and what isn't, in the 2023 season.

Whats IN

- Tight jacket, wide pants
- Touring poles with fat baskets
- Earth tones
- Clear lenses
- Wolf shirts
- Lack of brand names
- Knowing your carbon footprint
- Owning a gun

- Public lands

2023 style meta in a nutshell (circa 2022). Here a biathlete is pictured XC skiing with a rifle, truly embodying what those in the industry call being "kitted and fitted". Too bad shes probably getting paid.

- Tall T's
- Newschoolers
- Paying full price
- Fleece hoods
- CTE
- Belief in the goodwill of your fellow man

The Archetype

Hate it or love it, this is peak clout in 2023. This individual can 2p2 while in a k-hole and still make it home for dinner with his fwb's parents. He will talk up any girl wearing an Arsenic hoodie about how his boys are working on a "project" this winter, and then ask her to film for them. This is truly the best(the worst) that Salt Lake has to offer.

TELEMARK TAKEOVER

Seems like anyone whose anyone nowadays is trying the dark art of telemark skiing. Is this surge in popularity related to a desire to slow down have more of an appreciation for the mountains? Seems unlikely, according to our research and fact checking team. According to our investigative journalism team, all tele skiers might actually be paid actors. An unnamed informant had this to say:

"Yea so basically um I get paid like 40 bucks like every uh month and uh all I have to do is just uh..."

takes bite of frozen burrito

" yea I basically just gotta ride these dumbass bindings."

Could this point to a conspiracy from the massive kabal of major telemark boot and binding companies known as "Big Telemark"?
