

THE PARKING LOT CHRONICLES ISSUE 2

THERE'S LOVE IN THE AIR, AND PISS IN THE WATERSHED

$0.00 US / $0.00 CAD / 400.00 NIS

parkinglotchronicles.xyz

PARKING LOT CHRONICLES IS BACK!

and we're talking love...

It's that time of year ... again. All the early season jitters are out of your system, and skiing 4+ days a week has gone from a dream to a mundane reality. All of your friends have either blown their knees or gotten into committed relationships. What now?

Become a sled god?

Get political?

Actually try to graduate this semester?

Slow down and enjoy the rest of the season?

What about falling in love? This time of year is either the highest of highs or the lowest of lows, depending on your current and past romantic endeavors. It's a time for reflection, a time to think about the slow decline of your standards and your loss of hope of ever finding that badass significant other you've been dreaming about. You could be takin hot laps with the love of your life, but no, you're trying to chat up a chick with a homemade fleece hat "company" and a nose ring. Seems hopeless doesn't it?

Love is a lot like a red snake on MLK weekend, you can either get out there and see what happens, or you can say fuck it to the whole endeavour and get belligerent at the Pdog instead. What's the right choice? Hard to say. The only thing that's clear is that its a shit show either way.

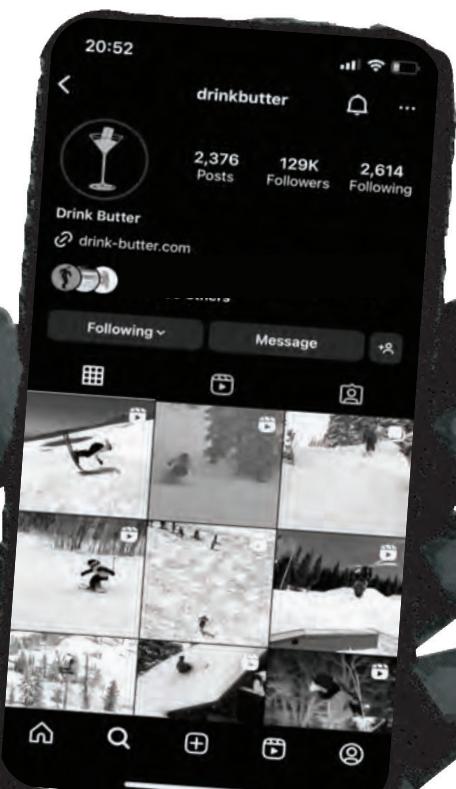

Brought to you by

"We know you can't buy her a ring, get her a card instead"

It doesn't take much to make your child an instagram skier.

Stop the clip-based economy

Learn more at parkinglotchronicles.xyz

~~CHED'S MUSIC CORNER~~

Songs to take chops to

1. Slime shit – young thug
2. Save that $hit – chief keef
3. My meds aren't working – dystopia
4. Truckin – the grateful dead*
5. Jerry's dead – crack bong

Songs to cry to

1. true love will find you in the end – Daniel Johnston
2. I'm so tired - fugazi
3. Rogue – cobraman
4. Trucker speed – fred eaglesmith
5. Drinking on the road – drunk dom and the roaches

"Have you ever heard of the band Dystopia?
Oh you have? I would have guessed that you hadn't it's pretty niche"

Homelessness is BADASS!

Songs to cry and take chops to

1. Sexless//No Sex - Iron Lung
2. Diary of a Battered Child
- Dystopia
3. Hazel - Far Apart
4. Letter to Madeline
- Ian Noe
5. Ballad of Big Nothing
- Elliot Smith

*The Greatful Dead should be avoided at all costs. We are making this exception as 'Truckin'' is a song about blue collar work which is core as fuck.

We get it, you like EC Melodi, get a studded belt and a metal band shirt and FUCK OFF

OOPS! YOU TORE YOUR ACL.....

WHAT NOW?

- Make sure to do your PT!
 - Watch Netflix!
 - Get ahead at work or school!
 - Reach out to old friends you haven't talked to in a while!
 - Do nothing!
 - Do nothing!
 - DO NOTHING!
 - DO NOTHING!
 - NOTHING!
 - NOTHINKING!
 - NOTHING
 - NOTHING
 - NOTHING NO HIN NOTHING APELLE

ASK JENNESSICA

Video Part Woes

Dear Jennessica,

After my boyfriend spent a whole season ditching me to go "work on his video project" with his scumbag college buddies, he finally released it. Its incredibly mid. He even had a "premiere" in the backyard and only 10 people showed up, and two of them were his parents. How do I deal with the shame and guilt associated with this?

Sincerely, Disappointed

Dear Disappointed,

Love and lust are fraught with problems anywhere you go, but here in the high hills of the Wasatch, we have problems all our own. This is one of the most common problems I see in struggling couples, one partner just never grew out of their pathological teenage need to be validated in their current endeavors. Usually, these men realize that life is more than just @newschoolers shout outs and fiending for a "sponsorship" around the age of 17, but some just fall deeper and deeper into the pit of clout chasing until their 25 and the only thing keeping them going is Wendover weekends and the faint hope of someday being described as a "good skier" when introduced to some U of U freshmen at Wives.

If you really love him, you can either buy him a Woodward membership and continue to entertain his delusions, or introduce him to a new avenue of obsession that he can make his entire personality. Whether that be kayaking, climbing, thru-hiking, day-trading, sewing, or any other time consuming activity, at least he's not embarrassing you on a (semi) global stage.

- Dr. Jennessica

PS: You could also break up with him! Why associate with anyone who doesn't have clout when you could climb the SLC social ladder instead?

Relationship advice from a real-deal, actual, mature adult*

*not her thats just a random picture of someone don't give us too much credit

Date Night Ideas

- Take them to a public park to smoke. When they ask to leave, bark at them
- Bring them to Cabelas. Spend way too much time in the gun aisle
- Spend a romantic weekend clipping hydraulic lines and filling fuel tanks with Karo down in Southern Utah
- Lil C's dumpster

First Date Conversation Topics

- The "Beacon" video
- Life-defining personal trauma
- Rudy Lepine's segment in 2020's "Nevermind"?
- Lib Tech's MagnaTraction technology
- Your daily Kratom intake
- Pork Frat

2023's Best Tinder Pickup Lines

1.

Hey my 2003 Toyota carola broke down at the Wendy's drive through on 46th. Do you think you could call me a tow truck. I don't want the cops getting involved because I got a bag of pills on me

*nissan Altima

2.

Do you like chops?

3.

Let's ski together

HONORABLE MENTION

Okay this is random but I saw your flyer and [REDACTED]'s party last week. I need one.

Not sure what to get your significant other for valentines day?

Don't worry, we got the...

Flowers

Cost: $20

Pros:

- Classy
- Makes house smell better
- Cons:
- Expensive
- Overplayed

Cool Glass Ornament

Cost: $10 (free in downtown SLC)

Pros:

- Cheap
- Smells cool

Cons:

-Class D Misdemeanor

Trash

Cost: FREE!

Pros:

- Eco friendly
- Can be used for arts + crafts
- Cons:
- Stinky

IG Skier merch

Cost: way too much

Pros:

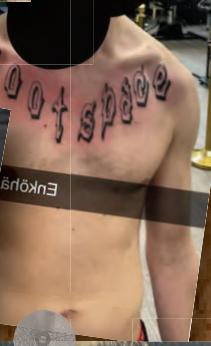

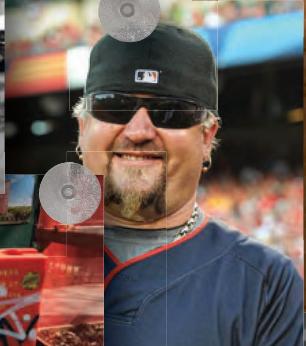

- great way to show how much you love to fanboy for local instagram micro-influencers
- Cons:

-low/no effort

- Having an army of teenage fans from the midwest does not entitle you to make a living. Neither does owning a sewing machine.

PLC MOOD BOARD

CLASSIFIEDS

LOOKING FOR LOVE

PRT major in search of 35 year old career river guide

Freeride bro in search of literally anyone

Brighton Spliff Enthusiast looking for Filmer Wifey (must provide HMC150)

U of U Freshman looking for someone who owns a car (will not chip gas money)

Patio hero looking to redeem good boy points

Washed pro snowboarder looking for a minor

RANT AND RAVE
WHO THE FUCK LET A DOOR-TO-DOOR PEST CONTROL SALES COMPANY HOST A RAIL JAM? WHATS IT GOT TO DO WITH THE JAZZ? OR TRAVIS SCOTT?

I'M JUST CONFUSED. SNOWBOARDERS, FOR A "SPORT" THATS BUILT OFF OF THE IDEA OF "AESTHETICS OVER EVERYTHING", WHY DO YOU REPEATED ASSOCIATE YOURSELVES WITH THE WACKEST SHIT EVER?

Sincerely,
A Concerned Citizen

SELLING

1997 Toyota Tacoma
$7500

260K miles, minor cosmetic front-end damaged. Mechanically good

Single Vishnu Wet 177
$300

Mounted 3 times at center, pulled out 3 times.

Edges have been removed and PTEX'ed shut so its urban ready!

Located in South Salt lake, local pickup prefered

Buyer Pays shipping (will not provide tracking number)

NO LOWBALLS! I KNOW WHAT I HAVE

Want to find love, lust, cars trucks, attention, or anything else other than the aformentioned?

EMAIL US AT
admin@parkinglotchronicles.xyz

Please send weird shit that I can put in the next issue
AGGREGGATION > CREATION
ALWAYS AND FOREVER

The Great Vishnu Decline

Vishnu's "Core" days are over, whats next?

Whatever it is, its definitely not JETSKIS

It's becoming readily apparent that Vishnu has lived its effective life as a "core" ski company, and will now be relegated to a mid-tier mainstream "ski manufacturer" (topsheet designer). This is an excellent financial decision for the company, but for its loyal followers who have relied on the company as a source of personality and community, this is a tough blow to take. Where will those that choose a ski based on purely aesthetics flock to next? Here in the PLC Gear Department, we want our readers to be looked at in admiration and jealousy no matter where they go, despite a lack of skiing ability or personality, so we have decided to throw together our picks for the next "core" ski.

To get some obvious choices out of the way:

1000SKIS: Too expensive, terrible IG presence

Ninthward: In the grave Scrappy Jo Young dug for them

ON3P: Their core days have come and gone

JSkis: Skis for guys who wear head-to-toe floral Virtika/Saga

RMU

Pros:

- Cool Shape
- Still a lowkey company
- WILEY MILLER

Cons:

- Pricey
- Dogshit durability

K2 HELLBENT

Pros:

- Powder noodles
- 120-130 underfoot

Cons:

- Haven't been manufactured in 10+ years

Commencal

Pros:

- BLDZ associated
 - Look kinda fun
- Cons:
- Made by a bike company (not core)
 - Bland euro graphics

Fat-ypus

Pros:

- Heavy 2010s Callback
 - Recognizable shape
- Cons:
- Heaviest ski known to man
 - basically out of business

NO ONE GIVES A SHIT ABOUT CRYPTO: CHILD LABOR GETS INTO NFTS

+ Gnars^{DAO}

In one of the least core moves to date, the Child Labor crew, most know for their urban antics and ketamine intake, have decided to start selling some of their greatest hits as “NFTs” through the crypto project Gnars DAO. Despite being approximately 2.5 years late to the crypto phenomenon, Child Labor members Bennie Osnow and Cal Carson are attempting to get that bag by selling seemingly anything they have ownership of, from Cal’s ender in “Take 3” to random woodies clips. While the clip marketplace that the group is using, thatsgnar.ly, uses NFT buzzwords such as “minting” and “collectible”, it appears that the project has no connection to blockchain technology, outside of its payment method.

Bottom line, is it cool to financially support athletes that you want to see do cool shit? Definitely.

Is getting involved in this project a wise financial decision? Probably not.

Is this just a gimmicky way of cashing out on being a niche internet micro-celebrity? Abso-fuckin-lutely

Remember kids...

ARTISTIC INTEGRITY IS FOR KOOKS

PLC pharmaceuticals
Making life worse one weekend at a time *bored?

ask your doctor about*

Chops™

8 daily servings

300 mg Cannabis/500mg Tobacco

Side effects may include: Asthma, shortness of breath, anxiety, lack of motivation depression, coughing up blood, erectile dysfunction, hysteria, muscle pains, disappointment from friends and family, outbursts of anger, inability to show emotions, pooping blood, pissing blood, addiction, blood clots, lung cancer, being the worst person in the room, fear of the hatman, blue piss, green piss, violence